By The Associated Press

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel bloated after eating? ☐
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat, you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed, Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drug store—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

ALLIED AIRMEN PLAY BIG ROLE IN BURMA WAR

Planes Carrying Supplies to Troops on Widely Separated Battle Fronts.

By The Associated Press
Out of the obscure but important fighting in Burma and India emerged clear evidence today allied airmen were playing an increasingly decisive role—in offense, defense and supply.

Associated Press War Correspondent William Boni reported from New Delhi that transport planes were now striving to supply no less than five separate allied forces, variously engaged in halting the Japanese invasion of India or pressing their offensive against Myitkyina, principal enemy base in north-central Burma.

These planes were serving not only as supply carriers but were evacuating wounded from fighting areas.

The aerial pattern was even more obvious in the war against Japanese-held islands in the Pacific ocean. Over a 1,500-mile stretch from Dutch New Guinea to Bougainville Americans and Australians battered a dozen enemy bases with 252 tons of bombs.

They hit Rabaul on New Britain, Wewak and Hansa bay on New Guinea, Kavieng on New Ireland, and Bougainville in the Solomons.

Destroyers shell island.

The only attack not pressed from the air was a destroyer shelling of Piliyia island in the Admiralties, which Americans now have virtually under their thumb.

Twenty-four Japanese planes of a bomber-escorted force were destroyed by allied fighters in a running battle over north Burma.

In the first air action against Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's Chinese-American forces driving from north Burma, a Japanese bomber strafed an American airport.

Damage was small.

Boni reported nearly all the dive and fighter bombers available were being thrown into the fight to halt the Japanese drives into India, the most serious of which appeared to be a double movement against Imphal and Kohima.

Many Transfusions Fail To Save Boy in Texas

By The Associated Press
DALLAS, March 29—Billy Meers, 4-year-old victim of chronic nephritis whose case received nationwide attention in January, died today despite continuous plasma transfusions equivalent to two pints of blood daily.

He was too weak today to receive another transfusion.

A total of 352 pints was shown on his hospital record, this believed to be the largest amount ever prescribed for a victim of this disease.

CED PROGRAM

ends, small industries, more flexible than big ones, will be the first to come on the market with peacetime products—and at this point he quoted economists as saying that never before in history was there such a pent-up demand for civilian products and so many people with money ready to buy. He added, however, that the war has developed the habit of thrift in many persons, and that the buying will be selective. Not all of the savings laid aside during the war years will be turned loose on the market, he said.

Sound Basis Essential

So far as possible post-war unemployment is concerned, the president or congress, regardless of who they may be, can't do anything about that problem unless business does its part, he said. Government can only take from the producers to feed the hungry, and more than that is necessary if America is to go forward, he declared.

CED is concerning itself with many problems, one of which is a change in tax laws to encourage private enterprise and draw into action again what is called "venture capital," he said.

The whole range of problems touching on a post-war work for business and industry will be studied and the results made available in CED literature to anyone who can use it, he said.

Mr. Leland showed a CED film illustrating how CED came into being and how it operates. It portrayed application of the program to a typical small industry. Other films to be shown later will take up various phases of the program, and literature will be issued regularly.

The local committees will be given these facilities and urged to work out programs that will fit its own industries and businesses.

In Marion, as in most cities, the program will be handled through the Chamber of Commerce. Frank Foster, Chamber president, was scheduled to open yesterday's meeting but because of illness turned the job over to Mr. Griggs, Marion's CED chairman.

Business, Mr. Adams told the group early in the meeting, has undergone many changes in recent years. For a decade before the war, was the public whipping boy of the nation, but when it responded so nobly to its war tasks, far out-producing even the most optimistic estimates of national production, business regained its self-respect, he said.

Now, with post-war problems looming, business is at the crossroads, and should get set to take full advantage of the opportunities that will come, he urged.

RATIONING OF FROZEN FOODS TO BE EASED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 29—The government is expected to remove all frozen fruits and vegetables from the ration list soon and to continue present ration values on meats during April.

The action on frozen commodities is designed to clear crowded cold storage facilities for this year's production.

Point values on many beef cuts and most pork items were reduced this month to relieve freezer space filled to near capacity by record slaughtering of January and February.

Because meat stocks have not been materially reduced, the March values will be continued through April, authoritative sources at the war food administration said.

The present 16-point value for butter is expected to be continued for another month despite the fact that production, following the normal seasonal pattern, is increasing.

Meat rationing entered its second year today with civilian supplies still sufficient to maintain the nation's health standards but with little possibility the program can be suspended this year.

It was on March 29, 1943, that American housewives began giving up ration points for meats, butter, shortening, cheese and other products in the office of price administration's read stamp plan.

OPA Administrator, Chester Bowles commented:

"Odd as it may seem, total civilian consumption of meat during the first year of rationing was at one of the highest levels in the country's history. The nation's farmers produced during 1943 almost 23 billion pounds of meat, a record amount."

Of the total output, Bowles reported, about six billion pounds helped feed American military personnel and fighting men of the Allies. Some 17 billion pounds found its way to civilian tables.

Allied Campaign in Italy Never a Major Effort

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

British Prime Minister Churchill's expression of disappointment in the progress of the Italian campaign, and his refusal to debate the subject in the House of Commons, rather invites public discussion of a politico-military situation which has been regarded as belonging to the hush-hush variety.

"Perhaps," said Mr. Churchill in answer to a pressing question, "there may not be sufficient progress of operations for any statement to be made by the government."

I certainly have not concealed my disappointment that progress has not been quicker. The premier's blunt declaration of disappointment may help clear the air. He isn't the only one disappointed. What then are the facts about the Italian show?

This column has stated previously—that the operations in the present stage are subsidiary to the main assault on the continent proper. It was essential at the outset that the allies conquer the lower part of the Italian peninsula. It was vital that we possess the seaport of Naples, and the thirteen airfields of Foggia from which the allied bombers can rove over the Balkans and into Hitler's eastern domains.

Rome Not Necessary

All that was necessary. However, the subsequent offensive which has had Rome as its objective would seem to have been more for its moral effect than for military reasons, although there obviously would be military advantages in possessing the Eternal City. The point is that we don't have to take it.

Progress in the winter campaign has been slow for several reasons. The Germans have been holding mountain positions which are so strong that they could have withstood the attack of far greater forces than have been sent against them. The allied position has been made much more difficult by the winter weather and awful mud which have fought on the side of the defenders.

Probably the real key to allied difficulties lies in the fact that the vast preparations for the invasion of western Europe have prevented the high command from devoting more men and equipment to the Italian campaign. Apparently somebody underestimated the difficulties of an offensive up the peninsula to Rome.

Miss Leadership Skill

And who can say how much the operations have missed the skill and driving power of Britain's General Montgomery and America's "Blood and Guts" Patton—two of the greatest field leaders the war has produced? These two would have been a strong addition to the undoubtedly good generals already in the field.

As for the failure to take Cassino after the big blitz, this column warned readers at the time of the unprecedented bombardment not to jump to the conclusion that there had been success, because it looked as though there was a lot of hard fighting still to be done there. It was a lesson not to overestimate the efficacy of airpower.

The Anzio beachhead attack was advertised as a three-ring circus when it was only a sideshow. It was intended as a diversion, to stampede the Nazis into withdrawing troops from the Cassino sector in the Allied line to the south. It didn't work—and that was that. We didn't fool the Germans. Nothing more could be made of it without extending

PRESIDENT SUFFERS FROM BRONCHITIS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 29—President Roosevelt has bronchitis but he says he feels fine otherwise.

Affirming the diagnosis with frequent coughs, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters late yesterday he had had the ailment for two or three weeks. But he said it wasn't serious and there was no cause for alarm or headlines.

After all, he said, only one case of bronchitis out of about 48,500 develops into pneumonia.

The President said he had just returned from an X-ray examination at the Naval Medical Center in a Washington suburb. Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, his personal physician, said he had taken his number one patient to the hospital for completion of a thorough, annual physical check-up which had been interrupted by Mr. Roosevelt's current illness.

"In about two days, when I've seen all the reports, I'll be able to tell you about his physical condition," McIntire said. "But he's feeling a great deal better."

Throughout the week, Mr. Roosevelt had maintained a regular schedule, without seeing any doctors, coming to his office 10 to 12 hours a day, and making a few trips for a single appointment and a press-radio conference.

The Chief Executive seemed to be in buoyant spirits at his press conference yesterday and his cough appeared better than it had on Friday.

Twice in recent months Mr. Roosevelt has been ill with influenza. The first attack occurred last fall. The second and more severe came shortly after his return from war councils in Cairo and Tehran and lasted through a good part of January.

An average of 20 out of every 500 workers in U. S. war manufacturing plants are injured or killed each year.

762 Unfilled Applications for Telephones on File Here

Company Would Like to Accommodate All, but Simply Can't Do It: No Civilian Phones Manufactured Since 1942.

When 762 people apply for telephones and there are no more to be had, the local office of the Ohio Associated Telephone Company has to say, "We're sorry." To the 762 people are that many applications on file at the telephone office and only the most recent ones stand a chance of being filled.

The situation is explained by the fact that no telephones for civilian use have been manufactured since Nov. 15, 1942 and that telephone facilities have to be made pretty much as they are.

Required for New Voters. Transfers and Renewals.

Monday, April 10 is deadline for young men and women arriving at voting age, and those who, through transfer of residence, change of name or other circumstances must register at the office of the board of elections if they are to be eligible to vote in the May primary.

Persons who have not voted in the last two years will not be eligible for casting a ballot either in the primary or on Nov. 7 unless they register, election board officials point out. Records at the office show that 5,101 names of persons ineligible to vote were withdrawn from the files in 1943.

ARGENTINE OFFICIAL ATTACKS ARMOUR

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, March 23—The New York Times and the Herald Tribune in dispatches from Montevideo said today Gen. Luis C. Perlinger, Argentina's minister of the interior, had violently attacked United States Ambassador Norman Armour in an official discussion of the international situation with a group of Argentine newspapermen.

The dispatches to both newspapers said Perlinger did not mention Armour by name but that he had made it obvious to whom he was referring.

The interior minister also was said to have assailed the war aims of the United States and Great Britain and to have predicted that all of the present belligerents would soon unite to fight Russia.

Washington recently instructed Armour to refrain from diplomatic activity with the present Argentine regime pending further study of conditions under which Gen. Pedro Ramirez turned over the presidency to Gen. Edelmiro Farrell.

Both dispatches quoted Perlinger as saying American and British middle classes were more in sympathy with Nazi Germany than with Soviet Russia. The Tribune termed this "Adolf Hitler's old red herring."

Since Perlinger assumed the office of minister of the interior stringent measures against United States concerns have been taken by departments coming under his control.

New Taxes To Start April 1

Wide Range of Articles and Services Hit; Retail Cost of Luggage, Handbags, Wallets Assessed for First Time.

When a new list of federal excise taxes goes into effect April 1 a number of items of merchandise and forms of service will start carrying substantially increased taxes, and in some cases heavy federal retail taxes will be imposed for the first time.

One of the outstanding samples of items taxed federally at the retail level for the first time is luggage, handbags, wallets, etc. The only federal tax on these items at present is 10 per cent of manufacturer's sales price on luggage only. After April 1, a 20 per cent tax on the retail price of these items will be charged.

In view of the fact that men's wallets and women's purses of all kinds, regardless of the material used in their manufacture, and cosmetic bags or kits containing toilet preparations are included, this new tax will be widely felt. Even those khaki soldier toilet kits for servicemen will be hit.

The list of tax changes effective April 1 is long and complicated, covering items ranging from liquors to light bulbs. Some of the changes follow:

Distilled spirits—Increase from $6 to $9 a gallon.

General admissions—Increase from one cent per 10 cents or fraction thereof to one cent per 5 cents or fraction thereof.

Bowling alleys, billiard parlors—Increase from $10 to $20 for each table or bowling alley.

Transportation of persons—increase from 10 per cent of charge to 15 per cent of charge.

Local telephone service—Increase from 10 to 15 per cent of charge, toll service increased from 20 to 25 per cent.

Jewelry—Increased from 10 to 20 per cent of retail price (10 per cent to prevail on watches retailing at not more than $65 and alarm clocks retailing at not more than $5).

Pur and fur-trimmed articles—Increase from 10 to 20 per cent of retail price.

Toilet preparations—Increased from 10 to 20 per cent of retail price.

Electric light bulbs and tubes—Increase from 5 per cent of manufacturer's sale price to 20 per cent of manufacturer's sale price.

SEEKS DISMISSAL OF CHAPLIN CASE

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, March 23—Defense efforts to have the Charlie Chaplin Mann act case thrown out of federal court on a motion for directed acquittal met stubborn resistance today from the prosecution.

A motion for the directed verdict was made by the actor's attorney, Jerry Giesler, late yesterday after Chaplin's butler, lean and solemn Edward Chaney, testifying for the prosecution, said Chaplin had admitted within his hearing that he had engaged in intimacies both in New York and in Beverly Hills with red-haired Joan Berry. Chaney spoke almost inaudibly.

Giesler did not deny that the alleged act had occurred in New York.

"For the purposes of our argument," he told the court, "you must assume that the act took place."

But, he added, the relationship between Miss Berry, 24, and Chaplin, 30 years older, could have been pursued "undisturbed, indefinitely and anywhere," and did not necessitate a trip to New York or anywhere else.

He asserted the acts "laid to Chaplin did not fall within the purview of the Mann act, which forbids the transportation of a woman in interstate commerce for immoral purposes."

"In the interests of justice," he declared, "I urge that this case is not within the limits of common sense, and I sincerely feel that the evidence, when viewed in its true perspective, doesn't measure up to requirements."

Chaplin looked bored and drowsy while Giesler was presenting the argument. The actor leaned back in his chair, occasionally swiveling around and looking at the press row or the spectators.

Earlier, Miss Berry vehemently denied, under Giesler's questioning, that she had demanded a $150,000 cash settlement from Chaplin on the ground that he purportedly was the father of her daughter, Carol Ann, now five months old.

Piles Are Never 'Mild'

DANGER IN NEGLECT
No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only positive cure. This can be done without knife, drugs or loss of time from work.

On to Berlin

THE Red army racing west of the Prut across the plains of Moldavia into Rumania furnishes the answer to the question of Russia's policy on fighting beyond its pre-war boundaries.

"For the Red army there are no boundaries," proclaims Red Star, Russian military newspaper. "Her boundaries are victory, Berlin and a strait jacket for the mad German Valkyrie."

Probable extent of the Russian military penetration of Europe is as treacherous a problem in guesswork as the probable date of the invasion of Europe from England. It is certain, however, that penetration will not proceed long at the present breath-taking rate; the terrain presently will favor the Germans as decidedly as it favors them where the Allied drive has been stalled in Italy. The Russian army has shown incredible ability to overcome disadvantages, but it must yield to geography.

There is, nevertheless, a stronger probability that Russians may enter Berlin first than there is that British and United States troops will be first, for the obvious reason that the Red army now has the advantage of momentum. Even if invasion from England started today, the tremendous difficulty of getting a land force in motion against defenses which soon will have been four years in preparation would bar the development of momentum for a matter of months while bridgeheads were built up. "On to Berlin" is more than an emotional phrase for Russians. It is the statement of an objective.

Defining Executive Authority

SUPREME COURT decisions upholding price control and rent control touch on, but do not deal directly with, the eventual necessity of making a constitutional definition of executive authority in wartime.

Every war president has been accused of going beyond his proper authority, yet the court rules sensibly when it says that to follow the procedures of peacetime in war emergencies often would be to ignore the necessity of prompt action. Inevitably, whenever a chief executive shades the decision on wartime authority in his favor, he invites his political opposition to accuse him of intent to ignore his legislature, even though the legislature may recognize the impossibility of full participation under the circumstances of emergency.

The definition of executive authority in peacetime is reasonably clear; at least there usually is adequate time to clear up moot points. In wartime, however, many decisions must be made and rationalized later; it is virtually impossible, of course, to reject them later because then the deed has been done. And it is hardly satisfactory to leave all responsibility to the courts. There is no good reason why the rationalization should not be prepared in advance of war emergencies by a constitutional amendment defining executive power—an amendment describing how far a president may go in the use of authority during an emergency and describing, also, how far congress itself should go in delegating authority for any purpose.

More National Rationing

IF RATIONING lasts long enough, there is a good chance it may become rational in most of its ordinary aspects. OPA's decision to quit drawing deadlines on food coupons is another step in that direction. Chester Bowles may prove that his job as administrator is not necessarily a spot for transients.

While the decision apparently was forced by the tendency to hoard the new plastic tokens, to get purchasing flexibility which expiration dates on coupons prevented, eliminating expiration dates will have the further benefit of stopping rush buying just before expiration dates. Much of this buying was not rational; it was carried on merely to use the purchasing power of coupons about to expire. It encouraged hoarding and, worse, the reckless expenditure of stamps. In the case of large families, the new method, in combination with the lower point value of many commodities even may make possible a net saving in foodstuffs as fresh vegetables become more readily available. There should be less inclination than there was last summer to buy the limit regardless of need as a hedge against future shortages.

So They Say—

If we let loose in production now, I don't know what we will have to offer when people come back into civilian industry from war production.—Arthur D. Whiteside, former WPB vice chairman.

We are liable to have a generation of uneducated men and educated women in the post-war world.—Dr. Royell Gray Ham, president Mount Holyoke college.

If we fall back to even our 1929 production, we'll have 20,000,000 people unemployed.—Prof. Alvin H. Hanson of Harvard university.

Who are we, people of the United States, to set ourselves up to teach the other peoples of the world?—Dean William F. Russell of Columbia University Teachers college.

Congress has been so lax during recent years in its delegation of authority that we now have 32 agencies of government which are not audited by the general accounting office.—Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont.

News Behind the News

Dewey Appraised as Young, Vigorous Man with Analytical Type of Mind.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 29 — A question most often asked me—by both Republican and Democratic leaders—is: "What kind of a man is Dewey?"

More has been written about the life and background of the New York governor and leading Republican presidential prospect than any other public man except Mr. Roosevelt.

But much of it has been superficial and of the Time-Life-Fortune variety which could not suppress a reflection of owner Luce's preference for Wendell Willkie. The people seem to know Dewey's picture and his story—but not the man.

To me, he is Mr. District Attorney come into the larger field of government and politics. He is definitely not the familiar political type—tall, white-haired and handsome with a smooth way and olly tongue. In most communities, there is a straight, earnest, smart or wise young lawyer who is working, or has worked up that way. That is Dewey, still.

His prosecuting experience and courtroom background have given him an analytical type of mind, to extraordinary extent. It is his dominant characteristic.

Fact-Searching Technique
His technique in public affairs apparently is to search out facts on an issue as if on a case, to detect the phony arguments as well as the phony arguer, and to decide his stand in the manner of a judge conducting a private personal trial on public problems.

This has made him unusually free from prejudices and emotional errors which frequently sweep both sides.

In the current field of international debate, for instance, there are many public and private men who feel they know exactly what should be done to preserve peace forever, and some have convinced themselves heaven can be translated to earth if only they be permitted to do the planning. In this fervid and not often reasonable discussion, Dewey has sometimes been called an isolationist. He is not. Others have picked up his indorsement of an alliance with Britain and tagged Kollontay—One Who May Change World History.

ALEXANDRA KOLLONTAY
Red ambassador to Sweden

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

LOOK at Alexandra Kollontay, the 75-year-old Soviet Ambassador to Sweden, and you will see a feminist of the type which won the battle for American woman's suffrage.

Kollontay's name has been on the lips of every student of foreign affairs since she handed Russia's peace terms to the Finnish minister in Stockholm in February of this year. This woman who handled one of the most important diplomatic moves of the year is known to foreign offices as a suave, astute diplomat.

But she is known to millions of Russian women as a champion of their rights. Kollontay—everyone calls her that, as one says Stalin or Lenin—has fought for her sex for more than 10 years. She headed the Russian feminist movement, which she helped to found before the Revolution, and kept the question of woman's rights constantly before the government.

At one time she urged the creation of an "alimony fund," derived from direct taxation of all men in the country, to support abandoned mothers and their babies.

Feminist—But Feminine
Though Kollontay fought for women's rights, she is by no means a picture of the militant suffragette. Like many modern feminists, she is extremely feminine, both in looks and in manner. Even in the days which followed the Revolution, when other women took to oilskin coats and felt boots, Kollontay stuck to her Fourth Term Showdown on Executive Power.

This is the concluding passage of a speech by Sen. Taft of Ohio before the Republican Editorial Association of Indiana earlier this month. It is a concise statement of the threat to popular government implicit in the fourth term candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Still Rolling

War or no war, shortages of gasoline, oil, rubber and parts notwithstanding, 36,365,397 cars, trucks and buses are still reported running throughout the world, against the record total at the close of 1939, of 44,515,137, according to the annual world motor census compiled by the publication American Automobile.

Data from occupied European countries is not complete, but estimates for those parts of the world are believed to be reliable, and indicate both the tremendous need for motorized transportation and the success and ingenuity of men in keeping it running in spite of all obstacles.

No military vehicles are included in the figures, so the total of automotive operation is probably 3,000,000 higher than the data for strictly civilian use.

Most of the cars, trucks and buses are in the western hemisphere, the current total showing 32,677,797, of which 30,227,863 are in the United States alone. This is almost 3,000,000 below the highest previous figure. Elsewhere in the world, war has taken a heavier toll and the total is now 3,687,900 against 11,515,317 at the beginning of 1939.

Original Aim of Mann Act More Serious Than Its Current Application Out West Indicates.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAD almost forgotten the existence of the old Mann act that used to provide newspaper reporters with many a hot story.

In fact, I think I had a vague impression that it was a sort of dead letter when it came to public notice again in the trial of Charles Chaplin in Los Angeles and those alleged polygamists in Utah.

Incidentally, the Chaplin case will no doubt be an item of interest to the historians of the future when they discover that in the midst of our greatest war, with the fate of the world hanging in the balance, a matter of sex almost completely submerged the news of big crimes in public interest and discussion.

It should give the historians a good line on the psychology of our people in time of war.

The Mann act was passed in 1910, 34 years ago, hence the present generation probably has no more knowledge of it other than what they have learned from the Chaplin case, namely, that its violation is a criminal offense.

The auditor of the Mann act was James Robert Mann, a Chicago politician who was a member of the house of representatives for many years prior to his death in 1922. He was the minority leader of the house in 1891. He is said to have been an able legislator, but his fame rests entirely on the Mann act.

The act makes it a serious offense to transport a female from one state to another for immoral purposes. Primary purpose of the act was to break up the organized white slavery business that was operating all over the nation years ago, and to that extent it was most laudable.

BUT recently politicians and criminals discovered it was an instrument made in their order. After many a good reputation had been besmirched and many a sucker trimmed by blackmailers, the law fell into some disrepute and it was often suggested that it be repealed. It got so a guy was afraid to take even his elderly aunt Tabitha on a street car ride beyond the city limits. But of course no congressman would dare go home and tell the church people of his district that he had voted to expunge a law designed to abate sin, no matter if he thought the design had been diverted to inquiry.

Anyway, there was never any nationwide agitation for repeal of prohibition so it has remained on the books more or less moribund most of the time, but still there.

Once knew a lady who made a right good thing of promoting chumps to take her on train rides from one state to another on what seemed the most innocent pretexts, then putting the old shakeroo on the boys by flashing the Mann act. She died long ago of a broken heart. I forgot to say that in the matter of looks she was a bit on the crows side.

She had a guy by the name of Chuckleby arrested under the Mann act when he declined to hold still for the shake after she had taken a trip with him from Denver to Cheyenne. The first thing he did in his defense at the trial was to introduce nine alienists who all testified that in their opinion he was sane.

Then he addressed the jury on the "immoral purposes" angle. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "I ask you to gaze upon the plaintiff. Would a sane man be guilty?" He was acquitted, amid cheers.

FROM the 90's down to the passing of the act, the white slavery situation was disgraceful. It was due in many places to official corruption and in all places to local tolerance. Women were imported in large numbers from France and Belgium and other countries and sold like cattle to the operators of brothels of the "red light" districts of New Orleans.

In Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and scores of other cities it was a well organized traffic. Denver was the western headquarters of an organization called the Chevaliers d'Amour, or Knights of Love, which received the imports and distributed them to the local trade and to the mining camps of the Rocky Mountain west.

Many of them went to prison under the Mann act, and while I would not say that white slavery has been effaced in the United States I am sure it no longer exists as the big business it was in those days.

Bushwackers

By Truman Twill

While some fancies lightly turn to thoughts of love and this, that and the other thing in springtime, what the amateur landscaper thinks about is bushes.

His antics have been mentioned in this column before and will be mentioned again. While they are not restricted to springtime, that is when he hits his peak. That is when he is most likely to break out in the strange form of insanity known as "giving the bush the eye."

Comes a mild day, bringing with it the hope of greenery. Comes the amateur landscaper, sneezing and sniffing in the midst of his spring cold. He takes up a position in front of the bush. He announces the bush must be moved.

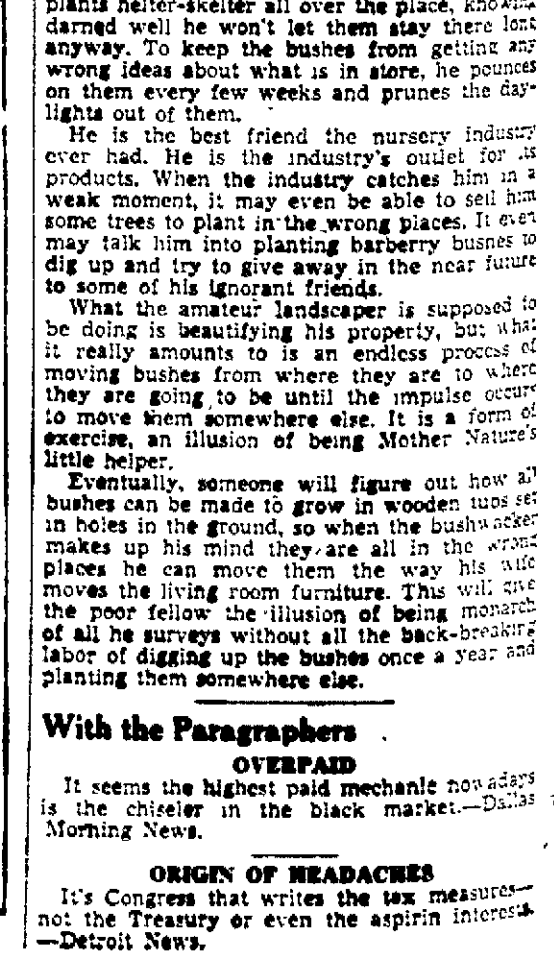

It is the same bush he planted there, himself, two years ago. To make room for it he dug up another bush and planted it somewhere else. Then he uprooted the bush in question from wherever it was growing and planted it where the other bush was. And this goes on year in and year out until all the bushes are tired and discouraged.

If a bush gives up, the bushwacker goes out and buys himself some new bushes, which he plants helter-skelter all over the place, knowing darned well he won't let them stay there long anyway. To keep the bushes from getting any wrong ideas about what is in store, he pounces on them every few weeks and prunes the daylight out of them.

He is the best friend the nursery industry ever had. He is the industry's outlet for its products. When the industry catches him in a weak moment, it may even be able to sell him some trees to plant in the wrong places. It even may talk him into planting barberry bushes to dig up and try to give away in the near future to some of his ignorant friends.

What the amateur landscaper is supposed to be doing is beautifying his property, but what it really amounts to is an endless process of moving bushes from where they are to where they are going to be until the impulse occurs to move them somewhere else. It is a form of exercise, an illusion of being Mother Nature's little helper.

Eventually, someone will figure out how all bushes can be made to grow in wooden utes set in holes in the ground, so when the bushwacker makes up his mind they are all in the wrong places he can move them the way his wife moves the living room furniture. This will end the poor fellow the illusion of being Mother Nature's little helper.

Dewey Leads Poll in Indiana, Home State of Willkie

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., March 29.—Indiana Republican voters lean toward Thomas E. Dewey for the Republican presidential nomination at the present time, with Wendell Willkie second choice and General Douglas MacArthur third.

The preferences are revealed in statewide surveys by the Institute among a cross-section of Hoosier Republicans from the Ohio border in the east to the banks of the Wabash river on the western edge of the state.

The sentiment on candidates was sounded by handing voters a list of leaders who have been most prominently discussed as possible nominees, and each voter was asked to name his choice today. Based on those who named a Republican, the results are:

Thomas E. Dewey ..... 47%
Wendell Willkie ..... 18%
Douglas MacArthur ..... 16%
John W. Bricker ..... 13%
Eric Johnston ..... 4%
Harold E. Stassen ..... 2%

Governor Earl Warren of California receives less than one percent.

Indiana will send 29 voting delegates to the Republican nominating convention in June.

The survey highlights Willkie's problem as a candidate in the Middle West. Although Indiana is his home state, and he carried it in the 1940 election, his popular support today in that and other Mid-Western states has been found lower than Governor Dewey's. Recent studies in Illinois, for example, have shown Willkie running fourth in popularity.

Food Administration Assailed in House

WASHINGTON, March 29.—"Rationing suspended" advertisements from Canadian newspapers were displayed to the house yesterday by Republicans who assailed administration handling of the food distribution problem.

Representative Hartley (R-N.J.) showed his colleagues the ads and declared, "If Canada, under efficient management, can do this, why can't we?"

Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio) reiterated demands that "administration of food be placed all under one responsible head." He declared food "is being given away, on one hand, and destroyed because it is spoiling, on the other."

Dried wild geese chestnuts are being used in Holland in place of almost non-existent washing powder.

Next White House Hostess?

This is one of a series of articles on the women who might possibly become the next First Lady.

By Central Press

Frances Huttt Dewey, slender, brown-eyed wife of New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey, has been a major factor in his meteoric rise from a struggling young attorney and voice student to the role of a strong potential candidate for the presidency of the United States.

The influence of Mrs. Dewey, who avoids the spotlight, is not generally known, but the governor is the first to admit that he leans heavily upon her advice and counsel.

Despite her keen interest and shrewd interpretation of public events, New York's First Lady believes that her first job is to be Mrs. Dewey, and to take care of the two young Dewey boys and the Dewey household, whether it be the huge executive mansion at Albany or the cozy farm home at Pawling, N. Y.

If Mrs. Dewey should, after Jan. 1, 1945, become the First Lady of the Land, the White House photographers will have a photogenic subject. She is strikingly good-looking and extremely youthful in appearance.

Few quotations from Mrs. Dewey have appeared in the public press since she came to Albany in January, 1943. She has a horror of publicity, for the sake of publicity.

Several months ago, during a serious shortage of nurses at the Albany hospital, Mrs. Dewey volunteered to work several hours a day at the hospital.

When the newspapers learned that Mrs. Dewey was so employed, queries from all sides poured into Albany accompanied by requests for pictures of the governor's wife at work. She demurred, explaining she saw no reason why she should receive the publicity simply because she was the governor's wife. The pictures were not taken.

When Mrs. Dewey arrived at the big, gloomy executive mansion last year, she promptly decided that the cavernous halls pass for rooms in that aging structure did not meet her idea of the surroundings which she, the governor and their two children, Thomas, Jr., 11, and John, eight, would like for a home.

Architects were called in and, without destroying any of the traditional surroundings of the mansion, Mrs. Dewey carved out a homey apartment for the family on the second floor of the building.

There is a piano in that apartment and Mrs. Dewey, who abandoned a brilliant future as a mezzo-soprano to accept the hand of Thomas E. Dewey, uses it frequently.

Whenever he can, Governor Dewey slips away from Albany for a week-end at his Pawling home, where, to a group of close friends, the governor and the first lady are Tom and Frances, who could easily pass for just another handsome, amiable suburban couple.

Mrs. Dewey was born Frances Eileen Huttt at Sherman, Tex., 41 years ago, but the family moved to Sapulpa, Okla., when she was 11 years old. She is a graduate of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy.

While in Chicago, as secretary and pupil of Percy Reitor Stephens, director of Chicago Musical college, she was introduced to young Tom Dewey, who was continuing his vocal studies at summer classes. Their acquaintance continued and ripened and, on June 13, 1928, when Dewey was a fledgling attorney with an annual income of $3,000 a year, they were married in New York City.

SPECIAL TO THE STAR

MARYSVILLE—March 29—Trinity Lutheran church here which has the largest congregation of any church of this city, voted Sunday to discontinue the use of German in its services. One German service has been held a month lately.

The vote was to discontinue the use of German not only for the duration of the war but for all time. The church was organized in 1878 and German has been used in the services since that time.

Author Speaks To Altrusa Club and University Women

CLEO DAWSON, author and a member of the faculty of the University of Kentucky, took members of the Altrusa club and the Marion Association of University Women, their guests and patronesses on a tour of theatrical hits and misses on Broadway and gave them a vivid interpretation of the play, "Tomorrow the World," last evening at Hotel Harding.

The occasion was another of the joint dinner meetings of the two clubs which have become a popular custom with the two groups in recent years. Covers were placed for 100 members and guests in the ballroom where later the group was joined by a large number of patronesses and guests for the program hour.

Miss Ruth Kramer, governor of the Fourth district of Altrusa and a past president of the Marion club, presented the speaker, also an Altrusan and a past president of the Third district of Altrusa.

Setting her stage with a thumbnail sketch of her own novel, "She Came to the Valley," which she said is the story of her mother's life, Mrs. Dawson gave her own personal views of the current offerings on Broadway before giving her play review. There are many revivals on Broadway including "The Merry Widow" and "A Connecticut Yankee," the latter being good comedy in anyone's language, and "Oklahoma," which is folklore, is making a literary contribution to the times, she stated. Paul Robeson in "Othello" is making theatrical history and there are many others which provide worthwhile entertainment as well as interpreting the events of the times, she brought out. "Tomorrow the World," which Mrs. Dawson said is a play that will go down in theatrical history, has for its setting a mid-western American college town and the story deals with the arrival of a Nazi-trained 12-year-old boy and his life in the home of his professor uncle and family.

Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, president of the Marion Altrusa club, presided, and presented Mrs. Herbert Petrich, president of the University Women's association. Ruth Turner, program coordinator of the Altrusa club, presented Miss Kramer. For the dinner table held a centerpiece of flowers and foliage.

Mrs. Dawson, whose dramatic style and personality makes a popular favorite on any program, was a guest speaker at luncheon meeting of the Marion Rotary club at the hotel yesterday. Her visit marked the first time she has been a guest speaker on Altrusa club programs.

Aquamarine

The aquamarine is a blue beryl gem. It gets its name from its color, sea water, and the colorful tints of this lovely gem are very similar to the changing tints of a turbulent sea.

Aquamarines come from Russia, Brazil, Ceylon and from several parts of this country. They are much admired in pendants, brooches, bracelets and other jewelry as well as in rings.

An aquamarine of good blue color is a stone of great beauty and is justly prized by its owner. It is the alternate birthstone for March.

MEXICO IS SUBJECT OF TALK TO ROTARY CLUB

Former Kentucky University Faculty Member Speaks

Members of the Marion Rotary club heard Mrs. Cleo Dawson Smith of Lexington, Ky., an authority on Mexico, speak yesterday on "United States and Mexican Relations." Eight other guests were present.

Mrs. Smith, former University of Kentucky faculty member and a native of Texas, told of the legends and history of Mexico, development of the country and of the attitude of the people toward the United States. "Mexico is an Indian country and always will be," she declared. Referring to the land, it is never "north or south," but always "up or down," she said. Outlining the history of the people, she remarked that the conquest of the Spaniards brought about the natives' fear of the Spaniards' horses which they had never seen before. She spoke of the Aztec civilization, of the later revolutions through the years and of the reign of the Emperor Maximilian during the American Civil War period. Mexico was used by Germany in World War I, she said, but in the present war the people are loyal to the Allies.

A guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wiant, she was introduced to the audience by Mr. Wiant, a member of Rotary.

Other guests of the club were Miss Ruth Kramer, Jack Gay, Gallion Rotarian, Frank Van Sickle, Cardington Rotarian, and Herbert Petrich, Robert Graham, John Lockstead, W. Paul Appleget and Dr. Richard E. Eicher, members of the Marion Lions club.

CIO Committee Hit by Dies Group As Communist Ally

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The CIO political action committee was assailed by the Dies committee investigating un-American activities today as representing "in its main outlines a subversive Communist campaign to subvert the congress of the United States to its totalitarian program."

In a 200-page report bristling with criticism of the CIO group and many of its leaders, the committee headed by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) asserted that in the coming elections the "Communists will throw their entire weight into the CIO political action committee."

"Their political leader will be, in effect, Sidney Hillman instead of Earl Browder," the Dies committee said. "They will attempt by stealth and subterfuge to do through the political action committee what they failed to do when functioning as a political party under their own name."

To Hillman, chairman of the political action committee and head of one of the CIO's most powerful unions, the report devoted an entire chapter. Also singled out for separate chapters were: Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel; Harry Bridges, head of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union; Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union of America; and other CIO and political action officials.

LEFT WING GAINS CONTROL OF PARTY

NEW YORK, March 29.—Left wing forces held control of the American Labor party today after a bitter intraparty fight which the losing right wing had said might affect Franklin D. Roosevelt's chances as a presidential candidate of winning New York's 47 electoral votes.

The ALP, always an important factor in New York elections, provided the margin by which the President carried New York in 1940. A month ago today the ALP teamed up with the Democrats again to give a Tammany district leader victory in a special congressional election.

The left wing, which had the support of Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, claimed to have elected in yesterday's primary 625 out of the 750 members of the state committee—the body which nominates the party's presidential candidate.

Both factions had urged a fourth term for President Roosevelt, but the controlling right wing had said "we wanted to hand President Roosevelt a nomination immune from criticism and attack."

In conceding victory to the rival group, George S. Counts, state chairman of the ALP, and Alex Rose, secretary, said "from now on the ALP will be controlled by Earl Browder (Communist leader) no matter who will be put up at its front."

Hillman, whom the right wing had never called a Communist, said the vote "shatters the fiction carefully developed by the party leadership that if they were defeated it would be as a result of a Communist vote."

OHIO OFFICER AND NURSE MARRIED ON BATTLEFIELD

Lancaster Lieutenant Weds On Anzio Beachhead.

NAPLES, March 29.—Honey-mooning on a battle field under enemy fire, a United States army nurse and a signal corps lieutenant were secluded briefly today, after their wedding in a hospital tent Monday night.

This first beachhead wedding culminated a 19-month romance that began at Camp Fickett, Va., in August, 1942 when Lt. Thomas G. Rose, Lancaster, O., met Nurse 2nd Lt. Genevieve Clarke, Allison Park, Pa.

Rose went overseas first and the couple met again last August in Sicily where they applied for the necessary papers.

Then the Italian campaign began and they waited until permission finally came through to Anzio.

The ceremony was performed at a flower-banked altar in a sandbagged tent lighted by 10 candles in a pair of home-made candelabra stained dark red with iodine.

Capt. Carl J. Simon, Canton, O., pumped out a wedding march on a little organ. Tech. Sgt. Eugene Wenz, Pittsburgh, Pa., sang "I Love You Truly," because "no boy there knew the words to 'O Promise Me'."

The bride, like all the others, wore her uniform. The ceremony was witnessed by 300 nurses, officers and G.I.s sitting on the edges of beds and on boxes. The best man was Major L. C. Grimes of Portland, Ore.

After the wedding the bride cut a 25-pound wedding cake with a trench knife.

COLLETT

one sentence, which covered all three murder counts, Collett was the first Ohioan tried on three such charges simultaneously.

Collett was examined in Fayette county jail at 8:30 a. m. by a physician who said he was able to appear in court for sentencing.

Two sheriff's deputies assisted him up the long flight of stairs to the courtroom and as the judge entered Collett was among the first to stand. He was wearing the high plastic collar he uses frequently as the result of a neck injury suffered several years ago in a fall.

After being sentenced, Collett slumped quickly and mopped his flushed face vigorously with a handkerchief.

The small courtroom was filled and several persons stood in the corridors. The sentencing was delayed about ten minutes as Collett conferred with his attorneys.

Collett then was returned to his cell and at the request of defense counsel, the court directed that he should not be taken to the penitentiary in Columbus until Friday.

After the sentencing Collett handed newsmen a statement penciled on a sheet of yellow paper in which he complained that he should have received a new trial and that he was mistreated before signing a confession that he killed McCoy.

Collett signed the confession after life detector tests but said he could not remember what happened to the women. Judge Rankin refused Monday to grant Collett a new trial.

Sheriff W. H. Isenhower said Collett yesterday said he was taken to his farm "for a look around" but the request was denied.

EVANGELIST NAMES RELIGIOUS QUALITIES

Evidence of True Religion Defined by Gipsy Smith.

At the Gipsy Smith union evangelistic mission last night in Epworth Methodist church, the evangelist, Gipsy Smith, preached on "Partakers of the Divine Nature." In the absence of Rev. E. M. Hertzler, president of the Marion County Council of Churches sponsoring the services, Rev. Charles W. Harmon of the Green Camp Baptist church acted as chairman and made announcements. Rev. Hertzler was out of the city. Rev. Max of Prospect Street Methodist church offered prayer and special music was a solo by Mrs. Smith, wife of the evangelist, and an offertory number by the choir.

The evangelist based his words on verses of the First Epistle of Peter, outlining the "qualities given through Christ," including faith, virtue, knowledge, self-control, godliness, brotherly kindness, love.

Remarking, "If the members of a family have true religion they will see the divine nature in each other," he declared, "Everything in your life that is not of Jesus Christ is wrong," and made the appeal, "Don't be led by blind leaders, see Christ."

"Some people are more concerned with denominational reputation than with the kingdom of God," he said. "We should agree about things divine and spiritual. When you know you are converted you have the peace of God that 'passeth all understanding.' It is not a profession but a possession. Christ is the one to salvation, the door has never been changed." He likened a fruit tree without fruit to a man without religion and emphasized, "You will never have spiritual fruit until God is within you. The natural man cannot see the kingdom of God which comes not through education but through Calvary. Nothing but the blood of Christ will save. You cannot take the hand of Jesus if you cling to phylacteries, idols. Give them up, obey the Holy Spirit or be lost. Sin is hideous in its true guise. Sin was ugly enough to nail Christ to the cross, but He became sin for us that we might be perfect. Accept Him now as your personal savior. Stand up for Christ."

Tonight at 7:30 his subject will be "The Lost Jesus." Thursday night, "Three Years in the Mud and Blood of France" and Friday night, "From Gipsy Tent to Pulpit."

SOFTER WATER TO BE AVAILABLE AT ONCE

No Wait Necessary If Rate Is Approved, Officials Explain.

Further softening of Marion's city water, which has been agreed to by the Marion Water Co. in connection with a proposed new rate contract, now before city council, will start just as soon as the new rate ordinance is approved.

This was announced by officials of both the City and Water company today to correct a report in last night's Star which said that additional softening was to be started sometime within two years. Earl J. Pierce, manager of the company, said that facilities already are installed to reduce the hardness of the water from 12 grains or less to not more than eight grains for all consumers. The only step necessary will be to add more chemicals.

It also was erroneously stated that a new franchise is before council. The present franchise, passed in 1926, is for 25 years and will continue until the expiration date. The only reason it was before council was to make a change in the clause governing the degree of hardness of the water.
